Reference is made to my memorandum of June 18, 1975, concerning captioned plaintiffs' Request for Production of Documents.

We observe that Request Numbers 1, 3, 4, and 10 seek information involving internal Bureau procedures with regard to sensitive investigative techniques. To avoid further proliferation of such material, we believe the above requests may best be resolved by a stipulation between the parties that the surveillance here being litigated was not conducted in accordance with then existing Bureau procedures. It is recognized that plaintiffs may be unwilling to so stipulate, but we strongly urge this effort be made to avoid further publication of these investigative techniques. We have previously advised Mr. Edward Christenbury of your office of our objections to release of this information and again here request that plaintiffs' counsel be contacted to determine their willingness to stipulate to these facts.

4- ENCLOSURE

Request Number 11 seeks plaintiff Morton Halperin's personnel and security files as they existed in early 1969. We have previously advised Mr. Christenbury that the summary memorandum dated June 20, 1969, which was furnished to the White House and the National Security Council (NSC) contains all pertinent information concerning Morton Halperin developed by this Bureau in connection with his employment by NSC and previous Government service and of our belief that only this document should be released, as excised, in response to this request. We again ask your consideration of this request.

b6 -4

DURING EVENING MEETINGS IN RECENT WEEKS, THE GROUP HAS DISCUSSED MANY THINGS. WHEN IT WAS REPORTED THAT HENRY KISSINGER WAS TRAVELING TO VENEZUELA, THE GROUP HAD DISCUSSED VARIOUS PLANS FOR CREATING SOME KIND OF AN INTERNATIONAL INCIDENT DURING KISSINGER'S VISIT IN VENEZUELA WHICH WOULD TEND TO DISCREDIT HIM AND THE PRESIDENT OF VENEZUELA.

AS A RESULT OF THESE REPORTED DISCUSSIONS, THE SOURCE HAD BEEN LED TO BELIEVE THAT POSSIBLY THESE PLANS MIGHT RESULT IN AN ASSASSINATION ATTEMPT ON KISSINGER WHEN HE WAS VISITING IN VENEZUELA.

STURGIS EXPLAINED THAT THIS SOURCE WAS UNABLE TO FURNISH ANY OTHER DETAILS IN CONNECTION WITH THIS INFORMATION AND NO OTHER MEMBERS OF THE GROUP WERE IDENTIFIED. STURGIS ADVISED THAT NOW THAT KISSINGER'S VISIT TO VENEZUELA HAD BEEN CANCELLED, HE UNDERSTOOD THAT ALL PLANS "HAD BEEN ABORTED" AND THAT THERE WAS NO IMMEDIATE DANGER OR CONCERN. ALTHOUGH NO DEFINITIVE PLANS OF THE GROUP WERE KNOWN, STURGIS UNDERSTOOD THAT THE GROUP HAD ONLY DISCUSSED POSSIBLE PLANS FOR AN INCIDENT INVOLVING BOTH KISSINGER AND THE PRESIDENT OF VENEZUELA DURING SUCH A VISIT IN ORDER TO DISCREDIT UNITED STATES-VENEZUELA RELATIONS.

STURGIS POINTED OUT THAT THE CUBAN EXILES ARE ALWAYS TALKING, CONSPIRING AND PLANNING SOME SORT OF ANTI-CASTRO ACTIONS, BUT IT IS PRIMARILY IDLE AND HOPEFUL GOSSIP AND RUMORS THAT COME TO NOTHING.

STURGIS STATED THAT ALTHOUGH HE FELT THERE WAS NO IMMINENT DANGER IN THESE ALLEGED THREATS, HE HAD PROMPTLY REPORTED THIS INFORMATION TO AN ACQUAINTANCE OF HIS IN THE U.S. CUSTOMS AGENCY, MIAMI, FLORIDA. THIS U.S. CUSTOMS AGENT HAD ADVISED STURGIS THAT HE WOULD PROMPTLY REPORT THIS INFORMATION TO THE U.S. SECRET SERVICE, MIAMI, WHICH AGENCY HAD PROTECTIVE JURISDICTION FOR U.S. CABINET MEMBERS. Abstract: Seeley et al. (2006) found that the majority of the 100,000+ people who had been exposed to the World Trade Center dust on 9/11 had not been screened for lead. This study examined the prevalence of lead in the blood of 100,000 people who had been exposed to the World Trade Center dust on 9/11. The study found that the prevalence of lead in the blood of 100,000 people who had been exposed to the World Trade Center dust on 9/11 was 1.1%.

The "Crimson" described SOHN as one of the four Harvard Professors among the 25 Americans who attended the Sixth International Pugwash Conference in Moscow, 11/27 - 12/5/60. Prof. SOHN was quoted as saying "The Russians are extremely serious about disarmament; they are frightened of the dangers of an accidental war and apprehensive of the day when small nations and even wealthy individuals will have possession of nuclear weapons."

C. BLOOMFIELD was interviewed concerning his association with HISS and stated that he first met HISS when he (BLOOMFIELD) was named Executive Officer of Special Political Affairs (subsequently the Office of UN Affairs) in May, 1946. He further advised that his relationship with Mr. HISS from that time until HISS resigned from the State Department was almost entirely that of subordinate and superior since HISS was director of that office. BLOOMFIELD stated he had absolutely no reason to question the loyalty of HISS to the U. GEORGE B. KISTIAKOWSKY, aka
JURIJ BOGDAN KISTIAKOVSKI,
DOB: 1900, Kiev, Russia

KISTIAKOWSKY was born in 1900 in Kiev, Russia, and was the son of the Dean of the University of Kiev International Law School. As a young man he served in the Czar forces and fought against the Bolsheviks. With the victory of the Communists he fled to Turkey and then to Berlin where he enrolled in a local university and subsequently graduated as a Chemical Engineer. He emigrated to the U. S. in 1928 where he continued his scientific research. He was appointed Dean of the Chemistry Dept. at Harvard University in 1946.

The Feb., 1968 issue of the Federation of American Scientists Newsletter published in Washington, D. C., contained a news item attributed to the 3/1/68 issue of the "New York Times" which indicated that former Presidential Advisor GEORGE B. KISTIAKOWSKY had cut all his ties with the Defense Department in protest over U. S. policies in Vietnam. His break was only with the military establishment which he had advised for more than two decades. He allegedly remained a member at large of the President's Science Advisory Committee and a member of the General Advisory Committee on Arms Control and Disarmament Agency. He was described as a Russian-born Harvard University chemist, an expert on explosives, chief designer of the conventional explosive techniques used in the first atomic bomb in 1945.

[REDACTED] advised that KISTIAKOWSKY had visited Moscow in 1966 and, as of May, 1968, was on a seventeen-member National Policy Board of Scientists and Engineers for the Eugene McCarthy organization.

PROFESSOR WASSILY WASSILIEWICH LEONTIEF, JR.
DOB: 8/5/06, Leningrad, Russia;
Residence: 14 Ash Street, Cambridge, Mass.

Professor WASSILY WASSILIEWICH LEONTIEF, JR. is the son of WASSILY WASSILIEWICH LEONTIEF, SR. His father was formerly associated with the government of the USSR following the revolution and the fall of the Kerensky government. LEONTIEF, SR., while assigned to a mission of the USSR in Germany, was recalled to the Soviet Union shortly after 1931 and refused to return and followed his son, LEONTIEF, JR. to the United States.

Prof. LEONTIEF was one of a group of sixteen Harvard professors who, according to "The Daily Worker" issue of 3/28/38, presented a petition supporting the O'Connell Peace Bill to Representative JERRY O'CONNELL of Montana on the occasion of an address delivered by O'CONNELL at Harvard University at a meeting which was sponsored jointly by the American League for Peace and Democracy, the Harvard Student Union, a unit of the American Student Union, and the Cambridge Teachers Union.

The American League for Peace and Democracy was designated by the Attorney General of the U. S. pursuant to E.O. 9835, and the American Student Union was cited as "subversive and un-American" by the Special Committee of the House Committee on Appropriations, Report of 4/21/43.

Prof. and Mrs. LEONTIEF were listed as members of the Massachusetts Committee for Russian War Relief in 1941.

Acquaintances of Prof. LEONTIEF and his father have stated that the younger LEONTIEF was a loyal and responsible American citizen, whereas the elder LEONTIEF, who at one time had been part of the Soviet government of Russia and had been jailed under the Czarist government for political reasons, had decided to leave the Soviet Union and to come to the U. S. to live with his son.

Prof. LEONTIEF has been described as a man loyal to democratic principles who is one of the most outstanding economists in the U. S. and has been outspoken in his opposition to the communist government of the USSR.

On 4/21/69, [redacted] advised that in a conversation with ALBERTO BOZA HIDALGO GATO, First Secretary, Cuban Mission to the United Nations, Professor MC EWAN (probably ARTHUR MC EWAN) of Harvard University had on that date discussed a visa for a Prof. LEONTIEV (phonetic). GATO stated he believed that Prof. LEONTIEV would not be granted a visa by the Cuban government in view of his recent statements concerning the sit-ins by SDS at Harvard University during the recent past. MC EWAN told GATO that he had not heard LEONTIEV make the statement but had talked with him later and it was clear to MC EWAN that LEONTIEV had not meant what he had been quoted as saying. MC EWAN said that while the professor was not a radical as the people in Cuba knew when they invited him and although he is not supporting the SDS, still he is not "playing a reactionary role" as the quotation attributed to him would make it appear. MC EWAN stated that LEONTIEV makes no secret of his politics and is a leader of the more liberal group of the Harvard faculty. He is by no means a radical and was invited to Cuba as a Technical Economist and has done nothing to contradict his previous position or to change the circumstances existing when he was invited by the Cubans.

Boston files also contain an LHM dated 1/11/60, captioned, "LINCOLN P. BLOOMFIELD, Born 7/7/20, Boston, Mass."
This LHM was forwarded to Boston from the Bureau by routing slip dated 1/23/67 and contains information indicating that BLOOMFIELD was friendly with ALGER HISS and on at least one occasion invited HISS and his wife to visit him at his home in Washington, D. C. BLOOMFIELD was interviewed concerning his association with HISS and stated that he first met HISS when he (BLOOMFIELD) was named Executive Officer of Special Political Affairs (subsequently the Office of UN Affairs) in May, 1946. He further advised that his relationship with Mr. HISS from that time until HISS resigned from the State Department was almost entirely that of subordinate and superior since HISS was director of that office. BLOOMFIELD stated he had absolutely no reason to question the loyalty of HISS to the U. S., and that he would be surprised and disillusioned if HISS were found guilty of the charges lodged against him.
He stated he considered HISS to be "tops", very capable and the type of supervisor who instilled confidence in his subordinates.

Dr. LINCOLN BLOOMFIELD, MIT, an expert on foreign affairs and consultant to the U. S. Government, was listed as a speaker at a public meeting on Vietnam held at the Old Church Parish House, Hingham, Mass., on 8/26/65, sponsored by the Massachusetts Political Action for Peace (PAX).

By letter dated 12/29/66, entitled, [redacted] [redacted] Boston forwarded to the NYO all serials containing pertinent information on WEISSKOPF to that date. [redacted] in this matter is [redacted].

The files of the Boston Office reflect that WEISSKOPF was one of a group of MIT faculty members who supported a resolution against political interference in the affairs of the University which was introduced at a monthly faculty meeting at MIT in March, 1967. The resolution commented on the action of the regents of the University of California in dismissing the president of that university. The MIT faculty supporters stated that the circumstances of the dismissal indicated the possible role of improper political considerations and concluded that such intervention in the life of a university is the first step towards its destruction.

On 6/7/58, in a telephone call to the Boston Office, the Bureau mentioned that WEISSKOPF had attended a conference held at Beauport, Quebec, sometime between 3/31/58 and 4/15/58, and that this conference was attended by CYRUS EATON, Professor JEROME B. ISRAELI RIGHTISTS ASSAIL KISSINGER

Likud Bloc Condemns Plan
on Sinai and Says Accord
Would Require Election

By TERENCE SMITH

Special to The New York Times

JERUSALEM, Feb. 10—The Israeli right-wing Opposition called on the Government today to hold new elections before agreeing to withdraw from the Mitla and Gidi passes and Abu Rhudeis oilfields in the Sinai Peninsula as part of a new interim peace arrangement with Egypt.

Benachem Begin, the leader of the Likud bloc, contended at a Tel Aviv news conference today that the Government lacked a mandate to relinquish such strategic areas and therefore "has a moral duty to go to the people and seek such a mandate."

The Likud demand came a few hours before Secretary of State Kissinger's arrival here to begin his latest Middle East mediating effort. The demand reflected a deep skepticism among many Israelis about the feasibility and desirability of concluding another interim agreement with the Egyptians.

Although Premier Yitzhak Rabin's Government is formally committed to Mr. Kissinger's step-by-step approach, three are many Israelis, including some Cabinet Ministers, who doubt its wisdom.

Peres Favors Geneva Talks

Defense Minister Shimon Peres, for instance, has asserted publicly that Israel would be better advised to attempt to negotiate an over-all peace agreement with the Arabs at the Geneva conference rather than sacrifice her bargaining cards one by one in a series of interim negotiations.

Premier Rabin and Yigal Alon, his Deputy Premier and Foreign Minister, remain firmly committed to the Kissinger approach.

As a result, the Government is bound at the least, to attempt to negotiate another interim agreement involving limited Israeli withdrawals from occupied Egyptian territory. The attitude of Mr. Peres and others is likely to harden the Israeli stand in the negotiations, however.

In addition to doubts about the merits of Mr. Kissinger's negotiating approach, new questions are being raised here about the Secretary himself. He no longer has the admiration and approval he had when he first arrived here as a mediator more than a year ago.

This new attitude was also reflected at the Likud press conference. Moshe Shamir, an author, who is one of the prominent figures in the bloc, stressed that "Mr. Kissinger is no longer the magician we once thought he was."

'Long List of Failures'

"He is not the same man in the eyes of Israelis today," Mr. Shamir continued. "He comes to us now with a long list of failures behind him in Vietnam and elsewhere around the world."

Many Israelis seem to be concerned that Mr. Kissinger may be seeking a new Middle East negotiating achievement to relieve his own difficulties at home with a growing number of critics in Congress and elsewhere. They fear that he may be inclined to press Israel to make sweeping territorial concessions — in exchange for vague and limited Egyptian concessions — to bolster his own position.

If an agreement is to be reached, Mr. Marcus said, "Mr. Kissinger must bring Israel proof that Egypt really does intend to move toward a real peace, a genuine modus vivendi with Israel."

In pressing his call for new elections, Mr. Begin contended that the public had had no idea when it last went to the polls, in December, 1973, that the Government would be "even discussing the idea of returning such vital territory in a continuing state of war with Egypt."

"The very idea would have been inconceivable 15 months ago," he said. "The Government therefore has a moral duty to offer the people another chance to express their views."

A spokesman for the ruling Labor party said later that the Government had no intention of holding new elections over the terms of an agreement with Egypt. He pointed out that the Rabin Government was committed to go to the people before carrying out any withdrawals from the occupied West Bank of the Jordan River, but not from Egyptian territory.

Unless it is forced to hold early elections, the Rabin Government's term extends until 1978.

A third speaker at the press conference, Shmuel Tamir, a member of Parliament, charged that "very heavy pressure" was being applied by Mr. Kissinger and the Ford Administration to reach a new interim agreement with Egypt.

"Important bilateral negotiations on aid and economic assistance are being held up," he said, "and we are constantly being warned about the possibility of a new war if a new agreement is not concluded now."

Mr. Tamir called on Israelis and Israel's supporters among the American public to "reject and refuse this unjustified pressure."

VISIT OF DR. HENRY A. KISSINGER TO LATIN AMERICA

On February 25, 1976, a representative of the United States Secret Service (USSS), advised that three shots had been fired at the American Embassy, in Caracas, Venezuela, on February 18, 1976, where Secretary of State Kissinger was staying. There was no report of injuries, except for minor property damage, as a result of this incident.

USSS representative also advised that a white Volkswagen was seen leaving the scene moments after the three shots were fired. No arrests were made and the incident is still under investigation.

The USSS further advised that minor demonstrations expressing opposition to Secretary Kissinger's visit to Latin America were held in Lima, Peru; San Jose, Costa Rica; and Bogota, Columbia.

Secretary Kissinger returned to the United States, safely on February 24, 1976, and no further incidents were reported by the USSS.

[MIKHAIL DMITRIYEVICH MILLIONSHCHIKOV] ~~(S)~~ U

On February 26, 1965, Benjamin H. Brown, Adviser to the Fellows in the Center for International Affairs, Harvard University, Cambridge, Massachusetts, advised that Mikhail Dmitriyevich Millionshchikov was known to him as an individual who in the summer of 1964 had been in the Cambridge, Massachusetts area as a member of a joint Soviet-American research group on disarmament. He stated that Millionshchikov had returned to the United States on a mission for his government and had been in the Cambridge area on February 22, 1965, at which time he had lunch with members of the American group with whom he had met in June, 1964. ~~(S)~~ U

Brown stated although Millionshchikov had been very pleasant and congenial, and is by nature a very warm human type he, Brown, had the feeling that on this particular visit Millionshchikov was definitely under some constraint and inhibitions, and was definitely "ready to get down to brass tacks," insofar as the disarmament group discussions were concerned. ~~(S)~~ U

Brown stated that he felt that Millionshchikov had been definitely ordered to follow a particular official line and had not been given much leeway to interpolate his own feelings within the proceedings. He stated he felt, personally, that the talks had actually moved backward since last June. He stated he did not have any particular reason for this, but felt that the Soviets had definitely "hardened up their approach." He stated that the talks centered around the over-all topic concerning the prevention of the spread of nuclear weapons. ~~(S)~~ U

MIKHAIL DMITRIYEVICH MILLIONSHCHIKOV

During the talks Millionshchikov repeated what evidently is a "very tough official line of the Soviets." Millionshchikov felt that the Americans should come up with something specific on Vietnam. Brown stated he had the impression, however, that Millionshchikov at the time of the meeting had not been given the official Soviet line in particular on the over-all Vietnam question. ~~(S)~~ U

Brown stated that the basic reason for Millionshchikov's coming here was to give a lecture series dealing with the International Cooperation Year. He delivered a lecture at the United Nations in New York which, according to information reaching Brown, was quite unexceptional. Thereafter Millionshchikov had been invited by the Harvard participants in the research group on disarmament to come to Cambridge for further discussion. They had previously exchanged letters and telegrams regarding an agenda for the next scheduled meeting, thus Millionshchikov knew pretty much what would be under discussion at the Cambridge meetings. ~~(S)~~ U

Millionshchikov was accompanied by his wife and arrived in Boston on Sunday, February 21, 1965. He stayed at the Dana Palmer House, a Harvard University site for visiting officials. He dined that evening with George B. Kistiakowsky, the Abbott and James Lawrence Professor of Chemistry, Harvard University, and had breakfast the following day with Marshall D. Shulman of the Russian Research Center at Harvard University. After lunch with the combined Harvard group, he dined that evening again with Marshall D. Shulman. ~~(S)~~ U

The following day, Tuesday, February 23, 1965, he cancelled all the plans made for him and proceeded to Rowe, Massachusetts where he inspected the Atomic Reactor in that town. Arrangements for this were made through Harvey Brooks, Dean of Engineering and Applied Physics, Harvard University. Dean Brooks requested a Harvard Graduate Student who speaks Russian and who is acquainted with Nuclear Reactors to accompany Millionshchikov to the Atomic Reactor. Mrs. Millionshchikov remained in Cambridge and visited with an acquaintance, one Mrs. Benioff (PH), who is of Russian extraction. Thereafter she proceeded to several museums in the Cambridge-Boston area and had lunch with Mrs. Harry Levin, wife of an English Literature professor at Harvard who speaks Russian. Brown stated he had been advised that Mrs. ~~(S)~~ U

Millionshchikov's main hobby is the study of American Literature. ~~(S)~~ U

Upon the return of Millionshchikov from Rowe, Massachusetts, he and his wife dined at the home of Jerome Wiesner of Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), and a former member of the President's Science Advisory Board. ~~(S)~~ U

On the following morning the Millionshchikovs had breakfast with Marshall Shulman and Paul M. Doty, Professor of Chemistry, Harvard University. Shortly thereafter they left Boston for New York. ~~(S)~~ U

Brown stated that in retrospect he felt that Millionshchikov had been quite constrained and "under wraps" while here discussing the future steps on the question of nuclear disarmament. When he had been asked if perhaps a postponement of the next scheduled discussion might be best he said he thought it would be. He was advised that the Americans would canvass fellow Americans and would advise him whether it was felt best to change the date of the next scheduled discussion on nuclear disarmament from March 29, 1965 in Moscow. Subsequently a telegram was addressed to Millionshchikov at the Soviet Mission to the United Nations on February 25, 1965, proposing a date of June 6, 1965 as one which would be better for a subsequent disarmament meeting. ~~(S)~~ U

Brown stated that Millionshchikov himself is very adequate and that he continues to impress Brown as an extremely capable and discerning individual. Brown also stated that the grandson of former President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Curtis Roosevelt, acted as Millionshchikov's host at the United Nations, and according to Millionshchikov spend a considerable period of time with him in the New York City area. ~~(S)~~ U

On March 1, 1965, Henry A. Kissinger, Professor of Government and Executive Directory of the Summer School International Seminar, Harvard University, advised that he had attended several meetings as a member of an American study group on disarmament at which Millionshchikov was present. He stated that insofar as he personally is concerned Millionshchikov had been "very unforthcoming" and insisted that the Americans should ~~(S)~~ U say something on Vietnam, that is, issue a statement on Vietnam which would set out accurately this government's stand on Vietnam. Kissinger stated he refused absolutely to do this. Millionshchikov held that if another meeting of the disarmament group took place then a formal declaration by this group should develop and that specifically we should say something about Vietnam. ~~(S)~~ U

Kissinger stated it was his feeling that we should try to postpone any such meeting, first because an agenda could not be agreed on and secondly because Millionshchikov ~~(S)~~ U would insist that some statement concerning Vietnam be issued following any subsequent disarmament meeting. Kissinger pointed out that it is Millionshchikov's thesis that in his country U, there would be no understanding whatsoever if a recommendation regarding Vietnam were not made. Kissinger noted that since the Russians will never sign anything contrary to their known and announced policy, the question becomes extremely dangerous. He further noted that the meeting proposed to be held in the Soviet Union will be held in the Caucasus rather than in Moscow. He stated this was a deliberate attempt by the Soviets to keep the American participants in the proposed meeting away from personnel of the American Embassy where advice from men who are more politically sophisticated will be available.

Kissinger stated he doubted the political sophistication of several of his colleagues comprising the American disarmament study group.

On March 4, 1965, Marshall D. Shulman, Russian Research Center, Harvard University, advised that Millionshchikov came to the United States originally to give a lecture at the United Nations regarding the International Cooperation Year. He had originally been scheduled to proceed to Colorado, but this trip was interfered with by the fact that the Soviets needed him to attend the Pacem In Terra Conference to be held in New York City. The Soviet Embassy at Washington, D. C. requested Millionshchikov to participate in a panel discussion at this. ~~(S)~~ U

Shulman then provided substantially the same information as given above by Benjamin H. Brown concerning Millionshchikov's activities within the following several days in the Greater Boston area.

A Rule of Selfishness

Saigon Political View Dismays LBJ Envoys

By Jack Foisie
Los Angeles Times

SAIGON, Nov. 1 — Recent sent here by President Johnson to make independent appraisals of the direction American political policy should take in South Vietnam.

There are authoritative reports that Kissinger will tell the White House that there is not yet a cohesive national government here primarily because nowhere among the national leaders is there a true sense of dedication to the nation. Kissinger's studies indicate there is loyalty to family and clan before there is any sense of responsibility to the country.

Although the emissaries themselves are not talking, these are known to be the findings of Prof. Henry Kissinger, a noted political scientist, and Clark Clifford, the Washington lawyer and adviser to Presidents both of whom have been recent visitors in Saigon.

Kissinger Trip to Peking Is to Begin on Saturday

Henry A. Kissinger, President Nixon's assistant for national security affairs, will leave Washington on Saturday for his second visit to Peking to arrange for the President's visit to China, the White House announced today.

Kissinger and a team of officials plan to make stops in Hawaii and Guam en route and arrive in Peking on Wednesday (Tuesday Washington time.) The first stop in mainland China will be at Shanghai, where the party will pick up a Chinese navigator.

The announcement said Kissinger will stay in Peking about four days and return directly to the United States by way of Anchorage, Alaska.

The President told a press conference Tuesday that, among other things, the date for his own trip to Peking will be determined during Kissinger's consultations there. The only thing announced about the date so far is that it will be before next May.

Flying aboard a presidential plane, the party accompanying Kissinger is to include:

Brig. Gen. James D. Hughes, military assistant to the President; Dwight L. Chapin, deputy assistant to the President; Brig. Gen. Albert Redman, head of the White House communications agency; Timothy G. Elbourne, White House press assistant; Robert H. Taylor, head of the White House Secret Service detail; Alfred Jenkins of the State Department; and three members of the National Security Council Staff—John H. Holdridge, Winston Lord and Jonathan Howe.

Kissinger, in Peking, Confers With Chou

By JOHN BURNS

© 1971 The Globe and Mail, Toronto

PEKING, Thursday, Oct. 21—

Henry A. Kissinger, President Nixon's adviser on national security affairs, and Premier Chou En-lai began talks yesterday on arrangements for Mr. Nixon's visit to China.

Less than five hours after Mr. Kissinger stepped from a Presidential jet at Peking's civil airport, he was meeting at the Great Hall of the People with a group including the Premier and the Acting Foreign Minister, Chi Peng-ei.

Mr. Kissinger was assisted by eight of the 13 members in his party, including Brig. Gen. James Hughes, military assistant to the President, and Dwight Chapin, a deputy assistant on the White House staff.

After the talks the Premier entertained the Kissinger party at a banquet. The Americans then returned to the official guest house.

A few details of the day's activities were announced early this morning by Hainhua, the official press agency, which broke the curtain of silence the Chinese had maintained since the recent joint statement that Mr. Kissinger would make a second visit to Peking.

Earlier in the day, spokesmen had refused to divulge any information about the talks, and correspondents attempting to monitor the Americans' movements were ordered away from the vicinity of the guest house, which is about five miles from the Great Hall.

The only glimpse that correspondents had of the Americans was at the airport, where the Presidential jetliner landed after a flight from Guam, the last leg of its 10,000-mile journey. It was guided by two Chinese navigators picked up during a 90-minute stop in Shanghai.

In a performance that gave the appearance of a dress rehearsal for the arrival of the President, the Chinese stationed their welcoming party on a taxiway more than a thousand yards from the terminal building. A few hundred yards away, an ambulance, a firetruck and crash vehicles stood by.

Col. Ralph Albertazzie, the President's personal pilot, brought the blue and white Boeing 707 to a halt well away from the crowd of correspondents and diplomats on the terminal balcony.

The Americans were met by about 25 Chinese, exchanged brief greetings and boarded a fleet of limousines for the 25-mile journey to the guest house.

With the Americans on the motorcade — five of China's best Red Flag limousines followed by a fleet of Shanghai sedans carrying officials and security men—set off for the city at over 50 miles an hour, a high speed in China, where the urban speed limit is 38, with the correspondents' corps in its wake.

The Chinese press has said nothing about the Kissinger visit since the announcement two weeks ago, but the passage of any motorcade attracts attention and this was no exception.

The picture was of normality and calm, but there were signboards to remind the Americans of the state of Chinese-American relations. A slogan on one of the woden obelisks in Tienanmen Square, at the south end of the Forbidden City, read: "People of the world unite and defeat the United States aggressors and all their running dogs."

At the guest house armed soldiers stood guard at the entrance and there were groups patrolling the outer walls. A strand of barbed wire ran between the road and the wall, with a notice in Chinese here and there warning trespassers to keep clear. Beyond the wire and the soldiers, atop the wall, is an electrified fence.

Kissinger Stays Extra 2 Days On Peking Visit

By Carroll Kilpatrick
Washington Post Staff Writer

Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger has left Peking for the flight back to the United States after having spent two days longer in China than planned. He is expected to reach Washington tonight.

There was no explanation of why Kissinger stayed in Peking six days rather than the four originally planned. Reports that he had gone to some other place were emphatically denied.

Deputy White House press secretary Gerald L. Warren said that Kissinger stayed the extra time "to wrap-up the discussions and negotiations and arrangements for the President's visit."

The timing of the Kissinger visit, and the fact that it was billed as an advance trip "to make concrete arrangements" for Mr. Nixon's visit have led to widespread speculation that the presidential journey will take place soon.

When the President announced the trip last July, he said that it would come before May 1, 1972; but an official spokesman at that time said it could take place before the end of the year, but more likely would be next year.

"Over half of my party will be concerned with technical arrangements of the trip," Kissinger said at the White House Oct. 5, when his own advance trip was first announced. He left Washington Oct. 16 on a presidential jet via Hawaii, Guam and Shanghai to Peking.

He is returning with only one refueling stop, at Anchorage, Alaska.

In his Oct. 5 news conference, Kissinger said once that he would be in Peking "up to four days," and, at another point, that he would be there "a maximum of four days."

Any number of problems in addition to policy disagreements could have caused the delay. Communications between the White House and Kissinger have been conducted through the radio equipment aboard the Presidential jet, and considerable time could have been consumed if Kissinger requested new instructions.

Problems of translation also could have taken more time than expected.

When asked about a possible date for the presidential visit, Kissinger said on Oct. 5: "I think we should zero-in on a date while I am there and therefore should have an announcement within a reasonable period after that."

Mr. Nixon has a busy schedule in November and December, and in January he has his State of the Union, Budget and Economic messages to Congress.

If he should decide to go to China this year, the trip could be in the latter half of November or in the latter part of December.

On Thursday, Yugoslavia's President Joseph Tito begins a three-day official visit to Washington.

Next Tuesday, Nov. 2, the President will confer here with Australia's Prime Minister William MacMahon; and on Nov. 4, the President will meet here with India's Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

On Nov. 9, the President is scheduled to address a GOP fund-raising dinner in Chicago, and on or about Nov. 15, he will make a major address outlining his plans for further troop withdrawals from Vietnam.
